

Summer is almost over!

Happy August from your local IT Provider!

It has been another busy month for everyone. We are excited to bring you your monthly update on Intrac and on the IT world!

Progress on Intrac's new headquarters is moving along well. Our team of techs is expanding their knowledge cyber security and there might be an end in sight with the chip shortage!

News on the Chip Shortage

The Senate has approved a $52 Billion funding package for domestic chip manufacturers to try and combat the chip shortage. While this doesn't include funding for chip developers, it certainly will help the cause. This translates to lower prices on hardware and decreased lead times on equipment. If you're looking for the right time to upgrade your IT Infrastructure, the time is now!

The Latest in Cyber Security

Twitter, Marriott, and Shields Health Care all experienced large scale data breaches in July. This resulted in an estimated 76,400,000 people having their names, addresses, phone numbers, social security numbers, and other data accessed and potentially sold. If it can happen to them, it can happen to you! We always recommend routinely changing passwords and scanning your devices for breaches. We offer many layers of Cybersecurity to defend you along with the ability to make your company virtually ransomware proof. If you need help assessing your Cybersecurity infrastructure, please contact us and we will gladly help!

Hardware News

NVIDIA has reportedly delayed the release of their 40 series Graphics Cards. We expect these cards to release late November. The good news is that scalpers are slowing their purchasing in anticipation of the release so Graphics Card prices are dropping. We expect them to increase with the release of the 40 series so get it while cost is down!
